VOLUME LXVI.

ALEXANDRIA, VA., MONDAY EVENING, MAY 1, 1865

NUMBER 98.

PUBLISHED (DAILY) BY

EDGAR SNOWDEN, SR.

OFFICE—No. 104 King street, over Stone's (formerly French's) Book Store.

NEWS BY TO-DAY'S MAIL.

Macon, Atlanta, and Columbia papers contain accounts of the march of General Wilson's army up to the 20th ultimo. The Confederates are represented as fighting desperately, but were defeated and lost West Point, Columbus, and Montgomery. All the bridges and rolling stock on the Montgomery and West Point railroad at Lagrange Depot were burned, but no private buildings. The city of Griffin was surrendered by the mayor.

The terms granted to Johnston's army embraced four armies of the military division of the west, but excluded the fifth, that of Dick Taylor, lying west of the Chattahoochee river. Among the generals surrendered was Beauregard. The principal one among the lieutenant generals is Hardee. Bragg was lately relieved of command, and was not surrendered. Wade Hampton refused to surrender, and has gone South.

The N. Y. Herald's Newbern correspondent says the last positive information of Jeff. Davis's movements was that he passed through Charlotte on his way southward, escorted by a brigade of cavalry, probably Wade Hampton's, on the 23d instant. Gen. Wilson was at Macon the 20th, and virtually held all southern Georgia.

The Washington correspondent of the N. Y. Commercial, under date of April 28th, says: "The family of J. Wilkes Booth, endeavored, it is said, to obtain possession of his body for burial. But the application was anticipated by the action of Detective Baker, under the authority of the War Department. On Thursday night the body was placed on board a small boat and carried down the river, where it was either sunk or buried, in the dark midnight. Only two persons were present—Detective Baker and another man—and they are both sworn never to reveal the location and disposition of the body."

KENTUCKY.

Gen. Palmer, U. S. A., commanding the Military Department of Kentucky, has issued a general order making it the duty of every military officer "to be scrupulously observant of public and individual safety and to afford complete protection to the people." The power to arrest any one "must be sparingly exercised and directed only against 'real offenders.'" Guerrillas patrolling the country, and robbing, are to be, when taken, tried and punished. Colored people made free, are to be particularly protected from molestation or harm.

NEW MILITARY POSTS.

The Washington Star states that "military posts, with detachments of infantry and cavalry, are being established in Prince Georges, Charles and St. Mary's counties, Maryland. The officers in command of the posts are instructed to forage on the country. Receipts will be given for supplies taken, and after the war, if the holders prove themselves to have been loyal throughout, they will receive their pay."
